BOLTON
& COMPANY

Most officers and directors of non-profits are deeply committed to the organizations they serve—and vulnerable to personal financial loss should a lawsuit be filed against their organization.

The Problem

Adequately protecting directors, officers and trustees of non-profits from personal financial loss in the event of a lawsuit against their organization.

The Risk

The loss of personal assets and professional reputation of a non-profit's valued directors, officers and trustees.

The Solution

Non-Profit Directors & Officers Liability Insurance, including Employment Practices Liability (EPLI), offered through Markel Shand, Inc.

When something goes wrong within a non-profit organization, it's trustees, directors and officers are obvious targets. Unlike their for-profit counterparts, directors and officers of non-profits are apt to have more areas of responsibility and fewer support staff, which can make oversights and errors more likely.

Many who sit on the board of a non-profit organization do so as a labor of love, not only giving it their time, but their money and passion as well. Reward and protect that commitment with Non-Profit Directors & Officers Liability Insurance, including EPLI, offered through Markel Shand.
